Creation Date: September 2005

Last Revision Date: May 29 2024

Last Review Date: May 29 2024

The Board supports and promotes a safe, and inclusive workplace for all that is free from violence and harassment. Personal safety of any individual in the Library facilities is paramount. Employee violations of the policy will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal.

Any act of violence or harassment, including sexual harassment, committed by or against any individual is unacceptable conduct and will not be tolerated. Workplace harassment means any single incident or repeated incidents of objectionable or unwelcome conduct, comment, bullying or action by a person that the person knows or ought reasonably to know will or would cause offence or humiliation to a worker, or adversely affects the worker's health and safety. Workplace harassment includes conduct, comment, bullying or action because of race, religious beliefs, colour, physical disability, mental disability, age, ancestry, place of origin, marital status, source of income, family status, gender, gender identity, gender expression and sexual orientation, and a sexual solicitation or advance.

Workplace harassment does not include any reasonable conduct of an employer or supervisor related to the normal management of workers or a work site. Differences of opinion or minor disagreements between coworkers are also not generally considered to be workplace harassment.

Violence, whether at a work site or work related, is defined as the threatened, attempted or actual conduct of a person that causes or is likely to cause physical or psychological injury or harm. It can include: physical attack or aggression, threatening behavior, verbal or written threats, domestic violence or sexual violence.

Domestic violence becomes a workplace hazard when it occurs or spills over into the workplace. It may put the targeted worker at risk and may pose a threat to coworkers. Employers must take reasonable precautions to protect affected workers if they are likely to be exposed to domestic violence at a work site. Employees have a legal obligation to report workplace hazards to the employer.

Sexual violence as a workplace hazard refers to any sexual act, attempt to obtain a sexual act, or other act directed against a worker's sexuality using coercion, by any person regardless of their relationship to the victim, in a workplace or work-related setting.

Sexual violence exists on a continuum from obscene name-calling to sexual assault and/or homicide. It includes online form of sexual violence, such as internet threats and harassment, and sexual exploitation.

The employer will not disclose the circumstances related to an incident of harassment or the names of the complainant, the alleged harasser, nor any witnesses except where necessary to investigate, correct or inform parties of the results of the investigation and of any corrective action, or as required by law.

The employer will not disclose the circumstances related to an incident of violence and/or harassment or the names of the complainant, the person alleged to have committed the violence and/or harassment act, and any witnesses except where necessary to investigate, take corrective action, or inform parties involved of investigation and corrective action. The employer may inform employees of a specific or general threat of, or potential for, violence. The employer may make disclosures as required by law. Only the minimum amount of personal information will be disclosed as necessary to inform employees.

Nothing in this policy is intended to discourage employees from exercising their legal rights pursuant to any other law, including the Alberta Human Rights Act.

4.2.1 CEO Responsibilities:

- Investigate reported incidents of violence and harassment in an objective and timely manner;
- Determine whether the complaint is frivolous, vexatious or not made in good faith;

The Board is committed to ensuring all violence and harassment complaints, safety incidents, and/or refusal to work are investigated in a timely manner with measures taken to prevent re-occurrence. Where an employee who makes a complaint that is deemed in the opinion of the CEO to be trivial, frivolous, vexatious, or made in bad faith may be subject to discipline up to and including dismissal.

- “trivial” means trifling; inconsiderable; of small worth or importance. Trivial does not require an assessment of reasonableness of the matter.
- “frivolous” means lacking a legal basis or legal merit; a matter that has little prospect of success; not serious, not reasonably purposeful;

SECTION 5 – LIBRARY MATERIALS

POLICY 5.1 COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT

Creation Date: May 1994

Last Revision Date: March 29 2023

Last Review Date:

The library collection is one of the most identifiable assets of the library and the Board recognizes the need for collection development and resource sharing policy. The Board supports the following:

5.1.1 Statement of Intellectual Freedom

The Canadian Federation of Library Associations recognizes and values the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms as the guarantor of the fundamental freedoms in Canada of conscience and religion; of thought, belief, opinion, and expression; of peaceful assembly; and of association.

The Canadian Federation of Library Associations supports and promotes the universal principles of intellectual freedom as defined in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which include the interlocking freedoms to hold opinions and to seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers.

In accordance with these principles, the Canadian Federation of Library Associations affirms that all persons in Canada have a fundamental right, subject only to the Constitution and the law, to have access to the full range of knowledge, imagination, ideas, and opinion, and to express their thoughts publicly. Only the courts may abridge free expression rights in Canada.

The Canadian Federation of Library Associations affirms further that libraries have a core responsibility to support, defend and promote the universal principles of intellectual freedom and privacy.

The Canadian Federation of Library Associations holds that libraries are a key institution in Canada for rendering expressive content accessible and affordable to all. Libraries are essential gateways for all persons living in Canada to advance themselves through literacy, lifelong learning, social engagement, and cultural enrichment.

Libraries have a core responsibility to safeguard and facilitate access to constitutionally protected expressions of knowledge, imagination, ideas, and opinion, including those which some individuals and groups consider unconventional, unpopular or unacceptable. To this end, in accordance with their mandates and professional values and standards, libraries provide, defend and promote equitable access to the widest possible variety of expressive content and resist calls for censorship and the adoption of systems that deny or restrict access to resources.

Libraries have a core responsibility to safeguard and foster free expression and the right to safe and welcoming places and conditions. To this end, libraries make available their public spaces and services to individuals and groups without discrimination.
